The broaches of faith yesterday afternoon at the Magistracy, before which the Hué Government were guilty, and their administrative incapacity and oppression, have at length induced the by a woman named Wong Fun Yung as that of French to relieve Tonquin from the tyrannical rule of the Annamite mandarins. Whether the French Government intend to formally annex Tonquin by making it French province, or merely place French officials there to administer the government. leaving it still in name a province of Annam we are unable to say; but we are confident that, in any case, they will not be turned from their purpose by Chinese fulminations or persuasions. They have gone too far to retreat, and ample notice of their intention was given to the world two or three years ago. . The Peking Government will probably pursue a similar course to that followed by them in the case of the Loochoo annexation by Japan: content themselves always the last one which was adopted with with protesting. It would have been wiser. perhaps, not to have interfered at all, as to do so was to court a rebuff. " NARCIRSE." Horr Bandmann made his débût in London in 1868 in Tom Taylor's play of "Naroisse, the Vagabond," which is an adaptation of a German play, and achieved a great success in it. The play is founded on avents which preceded the French Revolution, the scenes being laid at the Court of Louis XV., and a number of historical porsonages are dragged in, often in a somewhat unwarrantable manner. There is, however, considerable dramatic incident in the play, an outline of which we out from the Shanghai Mercury:-The plot of "Narcissa" turns upon the fall in Court was divided in two parties; one seeking the overthrow of the Queen, the other seekambition was to usurp the royal seat, and she had even obtained the sanction of the had to choose whom he would serve; he loved Pompadour and through her hoped to control doubt now that the great Viceroy has made France, but a declaration of his love was received with scorn : and that settled his course of action. Narcissa is a yagabond, beggar, jester, a wretched melancholy fool, changing his mood to the oracle; a broken-down, pitiful specimen of humanty, in whom there were traces of something rare and genuine, good, honest and virtuous; but broken hearted, the one sole aim of his life was to search for and find out his wife, the darling of his younger days, the only one he ever loved. Pompadour, in her glory, driving on the Boulevard. fainted at the night of the poor beggar; and this mysterious incident was the subject of plotting between the parties at Court; to find out who this Narcisse could be, to find out the reason why Pompadour should have pronounced his name, and then fallen back in her carriage as if shot. She attended at the performance at Versailles, when the play, "a new one," was presented, with Naroisse and Quinalt in the cast; the play had not well commenced ere the guilty Pompadour saw her own history clearly brought to light in it; and when sh found Narcisse there, her passion, her an quish, On Wednesday Messrs. Dimples are generally regarded as marks of beauty in all parts of the world. The Chines have a curious designation for them. They call them Tone Nup, or wine caves. They believe that persons possessing dimples have a large capacity for imbibing. -

PEKING.

The Viceray Li has sent an important despatch the Foreign Office regarding the encroachmanta of the French in Anasm. The Tsung-Yamen telegraphed to the Marquis Teeng to make. a representation to the French Government; to which they have replied that they thought the affair did not concern the Chinese, and they have ordered war-vessels to the coast to make a demonstration. Annam, or as it is called Yuchnan, is tributary to Chine, and has been so as it were from time immemorial. Only last year, an embassy was despatched to Pating and it was only the other day that we noticed its safe conduct over the borders of Kusugsi. Four years ago s executed by the Chinese. The United States Tresty with Corea was signed a few days ago, at Seoul. This was all previously arranged for dometime ago, as hinted to you. It has been put through by the iceror. Commodore Shufeldt, and the United States Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Holcombe. This reflects great credit upon the nation of the lines arranged this way and that in the fashion of Flowery Flag; but it may not be so well-a "Chinese puzzle," and of course is wholly inde-known that the Viceroy's choice fell upon the mericans, solely on account of the Anti-opium Clauses in their last year's treaty. Japan has been freed from the opium ourse, America being floors of four houses in Pun Lung-lane, was had never seen before. There will be danger of smuggling however-it seems inherent in human natures anegially where large profits are to be made; and as Corea is opened ander Chinese auspices and hardly as an independent country, it will be difficult perhaps to prevent the legal commerce of the latter country from finding egress into the former; more particularly as Newchwang presents an inviting field for smuggling scross the Corean frontier and through the Corean

> The province of Chehking has sent up Tis. 15,000 for the use of the Imperial Household. For the transport of troops from Kirin to Tarabagatai, it is ordered that lodgings and food be prepared at Kalgan, Ku-pei-kou and Sha-ho-kon.

The Peking Gazette is much taken up with removals of efficials from one post to anotherof requests for leave of absence on account of personal sickness or that of some aged parentof degradations of officials and of complaints being preferred. In this respect it indicates a state of corruption far from desirable. As the new district of Kirin has only recently been rearranged in the plan of the provinces of China Proper, the yearly meeting of the officials on the frontiers of their respective districts is requested to be held in abeyance for this year, as all the arrangements are not yet complete. Tso reports from Kisngnan the erection of an Appeatral Hall to some one who was killed by the Tai-p'ings, and requests that a small official who accompanied him and died at the same time may have his name placed alongside also. This very five Accestral Hall is built at Tan-yang Hsien in Kiangan.

The case of the Honau Censor who accused one of the examiners for plucking too many of the blooming caudidates for literary distinction in that province is again up, and the Governor gives the denial to the charges of the Censor. It is a well-setablished law that Censors ought never to accuse officials of their own province. The case of the Mancha imprisoned in one of the Guilds here has now been male public. have the man looked up. RINGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical servithis Werk stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been por half cunce as usual. The Post Office then compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in catenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given. the accounts being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. stowaway boy, and was subsequently drowned, while the boy safely reached the land.

There was a tempest raging o'er the sea, High were the waves, and shrill the melody .Of whistling winds, and as the vossel tout, Now here, now there, 'most every hope was lost, · For first the foremest wheelropes snap, and then They on the after steering gear depend; Hark! 'tis the rudder gone from their control. And then anon as o'er the seas they roll, A shriller sound is heard, o'en than the galo, The bursting pipes of ongines they bewail!

Now are they really helploss on the wave! And to his God the skipper, tried and brave, Raisos his voice, implores in agony, That He who stilled the waves of Galilee Will hear his ory; but ere the cry is given, The crash of rocks is heard, the ship is riven From stem to storm, and o'er the ressel's side, The grow in lifeboits quickly trust the tide, Save two, who from the waves recoil in fear, And die below, dreading the sea to dare.

Alone the captain on the vessel stunds, Tying his life bolt with his weary hands-Alone, I said, but who does he descry, Amidst the lumber of the deak?

Unknown, unboaded, who had made his way On board, to steal a passage o'er the Bay; Now eyes with terror gleaming, ince so pale, Frosh from his hiding, views the stubborn gale The captain sees him, and his heart is warm, Cold though his lands be with the storm. "Here, put on this my life-belt, I can swim; Then overboard they plunge.

Our eyes grow dim With tears as we write on, the sequel tell. The stownway was saved, the captain's knell Was the heroe storm; he sank beneath the wave Like a true scamae, in a seaman's grave. Yet list to this, in Holy Writ 'tie said, "He loudly speakoth e'en though he be dead," And no man any greater love on show. Man laying down his life for friend or foe.
